HAYT FARMSTEAD, Corn Crib

HABS NO. NY-6300-M

HABS
NY,
40-PA
2-M-

Location: Route 311, Patterson, Putnam County, New York

Significance: This structure is associated with past agricultural activities on the property and as such contributes to the significance of the Hayt Farmstead.

Description: This frame corncrib has a drive-through center aisle between corn bins, and a composition shingle gable roof. It is of sawed braced frame construction, with mortised and tenoned joints pegged in place. The structure is raised on short wooden posts set on stone footings. The posts are clad with sheet metal to discourage rodents.

History: The construction date of the corncrib is unknown.

Sources: See Narrative Overview.

Architectural Historian: M.H. Bowers, Louis Berger & Associates, Inc., February 1989.
